MCH

The Master of Architecture in Collective Housing, MCH, is a post-graduate full-time international professional programme of advanced architecture design in cities and housing presented by Universidad Politécnica of Madrid (UPM) and Swiss Federal Institute of Technology (ETH). After eleven editions, it is rated as one of the best architecture master's programmes by architects and experts.

Does the society need architecture and engineering? The modul „Leadership, Processes and Entrepreneurship" is a guided tour through our metier and the design and building process, covering our competences, responsibilities, and liabilities. In line with our acquired knowledge of how to lead the project and how to interact with the involved parties, we pay attention to our entrepreneurial spirit. We should keep in mind that unique projects, in contrast to repeatable products, are in powerful symbiosis with corporate governance. We want to explore the nature of our built environment and we believe that our approach to it can be referred to as building culture: the ways in which we can preserve our services' integrity will be our prime concern.
